WE notice that Mrs. H. M. SIMPSON has been appointed Librarian of the Lawrence Public Library. From this we infer that the "senior" librarian of Kansas has concluded to retire from the service. Mrs. RHODA TRASK, whose husband, one of the early newspaper men of Kansas, was murdered in the Quantrell raid, must have served the readers of Lawrence for at least fifteen years. It is very largely to her intelligent and persevering effort the city of Lawrence owes the fact that it has the largest and finest circulating library in Kansas.
